Applicant's election with traverse of the species of Group A, figs. 1-3, claims 1-10 in the reply filed on December 5, 2005 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that, based upon applicants "unitary inventive concept, namely, an apparatus for activating and deactivating fluid-operated devices it is believed that any search for the species embodied in Figs. 1-3 would necessarily include a search for the species embodied in Figs. 4-6. Thus, a simultaneous search for all of the species is believed not to constitute an unreasonable search for the Patent Examiner".

This is not found persuasive because the argument that the several claimed species are (or may be) searchable together is not conclusive that the several claimed species are patentably distinct. Moreover, there are no convincing arguments that the several claimed species are not patentably distinct.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claims 11-20 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Applicant timely traversed the restriction (election) requirement in the reply filed on December 5, 2005.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 9 recites the limitation "said front fluid outlet" in line 2. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim on the basis of its dependence on claim 2. It would appear proper if the claim were dependent of claim 3 in which the first recitation of "a front outlet" is made.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. §102 (b) as being anticipated by Benjamin et al.

The patent to Benjamin et al. discloses an "apparatus comprising a normally closed valve element (either one of the biased closed ball check valves 54) that can be mounted on a mobile part (14) and fluid distributor means (at 24) that can be mounted on a stationary part and is operatively connectable with said valve element" as recited in claim 1.

Regarding claim 2, in Benjamin et al., "said valve element comprises: a bell-body (read at bore 52) provided with a bottom part and an opening (the port in seal/seat 56) which can be closed with a closing element (ball 54), elastic means (read on the variable fluid pressure and centrifugal force applied to the ball(s) 54 to bias the ball(s) closed) interposed between said closing element and said bottom part, said elastic means being suitable for maintaining said closing element in a configuration in which said opening is closed, a pipe (46 or 48) passing through said bottom part of said body for connecting said body to a fluid-dynamic device (within element 16), collar means (read on the shoulder of body 44 cooperating with the inner end of sleeve 52 to retain the seal 56 compressed therebetween) radially protruding from the inner part of said opening and suitable for being in contact with and limiting said closing element, seal means (56) interposed between said closing element and said collar” as recited in claim 2.

Claims 3-8 and 10 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claim 9 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
